Recommendation for Use:
- Get into a comfortable position, either lying or sitting down.
- Create a barrier between the Infrared Heating Pad and the users skin. Place a small towel to act as layer between the two. Stones do not need to be directly on skin to be considered effective treatment.
- Adjust temperature so that it is more comfortable for you. The temperature should never be hotter than you can tolerate.
- Place pad directly over affected area. Use protective layer such as a towel.
- When using the pad, stones should be facing your body.
- There is no specific protocol for any individual with certain conditions using an Infrared Heating Pad. Treatment response varies based on individual experience.
- Start using the Infrared Heating Pad for 20 minute sessions that progress as you develop greater tolerance and comfort.
- Longer therapy session may require you to reduce temperature.
